Bar Committee Continues Divorce Investigation

Several Witnesses Heard at Afternoon Session—Adjourn Until Friday, March 3, When Witnesses Will be Cross-Examined

SPECTATORS THRONG COURTROOM

Judge Moncure and Davis and Budwesky Are Represented by Counsel—Thomas J. Wright Questioned as to Perjury Charge on His Suit—Sub-Committee Complimented on its Report—Charges of Improper Practices Are Taken up in Detail—Alleged "Victims" Testify.

The divorce investigating committee of the Alexandria Bar Association continued its sessions until late yesterday afternoon, and adjourned to meet Friday, March 3, at 10 a. m. Attorney John S. Barbour, of Fairfax, who represented Judge Robinson Moncure as his personal counsel, stated to the committee that he had not had an opportunity to familiarize himself with the case, and that he desired to cross-examine witnesses at some length, but would not be able to appear before the committee again before the date named.

Chairman Howard W. Smith requested attorney Oscar C. Thomas, whose name had been mentioned in an article appearing in a Washington newspaper, to give the committee the benefit of any information he might have. Mr. Thomas, through his attorney, R. W. Stump, stated that the article in question, in so far as it related to him, grossly misstated the facts, and requested that he be allowed to appear, with witnesses, on March 3.

Rev. William J. Morton, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, representing the Ministerial Association, stated to the committee that in the fall of 1920 he and Rev. Dr. Regester had been appointed a committee to interview Judge Moncure regarding the abnormal number of divorces being granted; that he had had an interview with the Judge and made a report to the association; that both prior and subsequent to this he had discussed the matter with Judge Moncure, and also with Judge Barley, and that both judges had told him they were administrators of the law rather than law makers. He said he believed both judges had endeavored to administer the law conscientiously, but in his opinion the fault lay with the law itself. Dr. Morton stated that he had always been a determined opponent of divorces.

Judge J. K. M. Norton called the attention of the committee to the case of Wright vs. Wright, in which certain papers were said to be missing. He stated that he had a certified copy of all papers in this case which he would place at the disposal of the committee. He said that Mr. Wright was present, and had stated that the answer in his divorce case had been signed by W. S. Snow as counsel, without his, Wright's authority, and that he would like to hear what Mr. Wright had to say on the subject.

Mr. Wright was called, and when asked to describe his suit, stated that his wife in her allegation claimed that he had deserted her on February 7, 1918, but that as a matter of fact she deserted him in February, 1920; that she also claimed to have established a residence in Alexandria, which was not true; that she lived in Washington until December 2, 1920. He said that in the papers filed by Mrs. Wright she claimed to have left him in April, 1920, and in May 1920 applied for and obtained board at the home of John W. Smalley, 329 S street, N. W., Washington, where she lived up to and including the date of filing of the suit. He stated that during the time his wife claimed to be living in Alexandria she was actually living in Washington at the C street address, and that he visited their child in Washington about 4 times a week, and on these occasions always found her at home.

Wright stated that he had discussed the matter of a divorce with his wife, and had agreed to her filing suit on the ground of "incompatibility," with the understanding that he would be permitted to see their child, and that he did not discover the real grounds which had been alleged until after the granting of the divorce, when he came to Alexandria and obtained a copy of the papers.

As to the answer to the suit, which apparently bore his signature as defendant, by W. S. Snow as counsel, Wright stated that he had never signed any such paper, and had not employed Mr. Snow as his counsel to defend the suit. He stated that he had asked Mr. Budwesky on three different occasions for the bill of complainant and was told on each occasion that the bill had not been made out, and he did not know what he was charged with until after the degree of divorce was granted when he came to Alexandria and obtained a copy of the papers.

Wright stated that his father-in-law had committed perjury, and that his reason for instituting proceedings

RESERVATION TO PACIFIC TREATY NOW PROPOSED

Chairman Lodge Moves to Offset Proposal of Senator Brandegee

SUGGESTION SECRET

Chief Question at Issue Is Whether Treaty Proposes an Alliance With Powers

Washington, Feb. 24.—The four-power treaty troubles of the Administration reached a stage yesterday that brought Senator Lodge back to his old role as a treaty "reservationist," and at a meeting of the Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Lodge suggested a reservation to the Pacific pact, which he helped to frame at the Arms Conference.

This was offered, it was understood, not because the President, with whom Mr. Lodge had just talked, wants any reservations to the treaty, and not because Senator Lodge desires it but because it is hoped thereby to soften the pending reservation offered by Senator Brandegee, of Connecticut.

The Brandegee reservation, representing again the irreconilable opposition of the so-called alliances of the old League of Nations fight, would declare that the United States assumes no commitments in the Pacific Treaty, that she makes no promises to enter into future agreements, and that in every case the consent of Congress must be obtained before this country acts in any matter coming within the jurisdiction of the four-power pact.

Various Republican members called upon President Harding to discuss with him suggested reservations. Senator New, of Indiana, reported that President Harding still is of the belief that reservations are unnecessary, but the Indiana Senator does not believe the President would go to the point of rejecting a reservation which simply clarified the meaning of the treaty.

It was the belief of Senator New, however, that the reservation presented to the committee by Senator Brandegee contemplates a change in some of the provisions of the treaty, and for that reason it would not be acceptable to the Chief Executive.

Senator Lodge after his conference with the President submitted for consideration a modification of the Brandegee reservation, which, he said, was intended to accomplish the same object. Senator Lodge specifically requested that the text of the reservation be not given out. It is understood to have read substantially as follows:

The United States understands that neither the preamble nor the terms of the treaty contemplate an alliance, nor is it committed to the defense of these islands in the Pacific without the processes provided by the Constitution.

Word was carried from the committee's executive session yesterday that Senator Brandegee had said that he would be satisfied with a reservation containing the words used by President Harding in his message to the Senate when he submitted the treaties of the Armament Conference. Under such a condition the reservation would read:

The United States understands "there is no commitment to armed force, no alliance, no written or moral obligation to join in defense, no expressed or implied commitment to arrive at any agreement except in accordance with our constitutional methods."

That language of the President in submitting the four-power pact is now being used by the "irreconsilables" to buttress their position for reservations. The Brandegee proposal to use the President's own words followed the lines of thought suggested by Senator Borah, of Idaho, another irreconcilable in the Versailles treaty fighting during his conference a week ago with President Harding.

IN CONGRESS YESTERDAY

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 4:50 p. m. until noon today.

Completed general debate on the bill making appropriations for the Department of Commerce and Labor during the fiscal year beginning July 1 next.

Chairman Butler indicated that the appropriation bill would provide for not to exceed 60,000 men, while Admiral Coontz insisted that careful figuring by the department had shown the need of at least 63,500 men afloat.

Chairman Madden, of the Appropriations Committee, after discussing the general situation with President Harding, announced that the last of the regular appropriation bills would be passed by the House by March 25.

Plans for closing hearings on Henry Ford's offer for purchase and lease of the Muscle Shoals, Alabama, project this week, and beginning on Monday consideration of the proposal submitted by the Alabama Power Company were disarranged by an agreement of the Military Affairs Committee, which would extend the Ford examination into next week.

Representative Ansorge, (Republican), in an open letter to Chairman Fordney, of the Ways and Means Committee, suggested a "selective bonus" for the sick, disabled and needy among former service men.

Representative Thomas Jefferson Ryan (Republican), New York, introduced a resolution suggesting the recall of Ambassador George Harvey as United States representative in Great Britain.

SENATE.

Met at noon and recessed at 6 p. m. until 11 o'clock this morning.

Chairman Cummins, of the Interstate Commerce Committee, introduced a bill authorizing railroads to operate trains by daylight saving time where it may be in use.

Senator King (Democrat), Utah, offered a resolution directing inquiry into an alleged loan of $14,000,000 to Haiti, but on objection by Senator Pomerene (Democrat), Ohio, it went over until the special committee investigating the American occupation of Haiti and the Dominican republic has concluded its injury.

Passed a bill by Senator McCumber (Republican), North Dakota, appropriating $5,000,000 for loans to farmers for purchase of seed grains in crop-failure areas. The bill now goes to the House.

The Senate by a narrow margin refused to send to the audit committee the resolution of Senator Heflin (Democrat), Alabama, for an investigation of the charge that the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank circulated a speech by Senator Glass, of Virginia, in defense of the Federal Reserve Board throughout Alabama, designed, Heflin charged, to discredit him. The proper disposition of the resolution was debated much of the afternoon and no action taken.

Men's Meeting Sunday

Heber H. Votaw, brother-in-law of President Harding, will be the speaker at a men's mass meeting which will be held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Westminster building. Vocal selections will be given by the "S. S. S." and Christian Endeavor quartettes. Mr. Votaw is connected with the Department of Justice. He is said to be a fine orator and one of the best Bible students in Washington. He is especially interested in Christian Endeavor work. A welcome is extended all to attend.

NATION WIDE SEARCH BEGUN

J. Herbert Taylor Seeks to Establish Identity of Train Victim

Man Killed South of Alexandria Morning of February 8—New Inquiry Received

A nation-wide search to establish the identity of the man who was struck and killed by a southbound Southern Railway passenger train the morning of February 8 at a point two miles south of Alexandria, will be made by J. Herbert Taylor, chief of the identification bureau of the Navy Department.

Mr. Taylor today went to the undertaking chapel of Demaine & Son and took a photograph of the man and will send copies to the chiefs of the police throughout the country. Chief Goods of this city yesterday received a letter from E. B. Brandon, Tilfton, Georgia, saying the description of the man answers to a missing brother of his and he has written for a photograph and further particulars. Mr. Taylor this afternoon furnished a photograph of the man and it was forwarded by Chief Goods to Mr. Brandon.

SET HEARING IN GIRL'S DEATH FOR TUESDAY

Edward S. Morgan Renews Bond In Sum of $2000

CORONER'S PROBE

Body of Miss Elsie Baggott Shipped Today to Nokesville, Va., For Burial.

A preliminary investigation of the case of Edward S. Morgan, whose automobile, Wednesday afternoon, struck and killed Miss Elsie Baggott, today in the police court was continued till Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock owing to the absence of Attorney H. Noel Garner, who represents Morgan. Morgan renewed his bond in the sum of $2,000 for his appearance in court at that time.

The body of Miss Baggett today was shipped to Nokesville, Va., where the burial will be made. Her mother accompanied the body.

A coroner's jury which met last night at Wheatley's mortuary chapel, presided over by Dr. T. M. Jones, after hearing the testimony of several witneses returned a verdict to the effect that Miss Baggott "was struck and run over by an automobile driven by Edward S. Morgan near the south intersection of King and Pitt streets, about 5 p. m., February 22, 1922, and died at the Alexandria Hospital half an hour later."

Morgan told the jury that he was going south on Pitt street, having come in from Cameron street, and after crossing the railroad track he put on a little gas to make the slight grade and was going at the rate of about ten miles an hour. Miss Baggott, he said, dodged from the south side o fa car parked near the corner, and he saw her when she had her hands on the radiator of his car. Witness said he judged he stopped his car within two lengths. After the affair, he said, he took Miss Morgan to the hospital, reported at police headquarters and notified relatives of the young woman. Morgan said at the time the woman was struck she was about ten feet south of the building line.

Others to testify were Dr. S. B. Moore, Dr. T. M. Jones, William H. Woodfield, Andrew Cheshire, B. R. Acton, W. H. Ruop, Frederick W. Athey and John H. Jones, the last named colored.

There appeared to be a difference of opinion as to the exact spot where Miss Baggott was when she was struck, some claiming she was near the sewer trap, about the center of Pitt street, which is just about three feet south of the King street building line, and others were of the opinion that she was a considerable distance further south on Pitt street at the time.

FOR GREATER ALEXANDRIA

The city of Alexandria went through the war period, as other cities did with increased expenses, but no increase in revenue. Every body had prosperity except the city itself. Salaries were higher, material cost more, our gas plant alone lost ninety thousand dollars, but that is all history now and we are for a greater Alexandria. We expect to make our dollars buy the best, and most it will, and should be wisely spent, where it will do the most good.

Street improvements add as much to a city as any one thing can, in the way of improvements. The writer well remembers after King street was paved, nearly every business house on that street put in a new front with plate glass windows.

For a greater Alexandria means for each one to do something to make it so. Don't knock, be optimistic, praise the other fellow some, praise your city, and compare it with other cities in the State of Virginia, but do not try to compare it with Washington City, the capitol of the United States.

Let's have something we can afford. Our schools are lots better than when I attended school, and they were better when I went to school than they were when my father attended school, so they are getting better all the time, and rightly so. Our streets are better, our sewers longer, lights are brighter, amusements greater, conveniences are multiplying, but they all cost money.

The city's only revenue is taxes and license and we will certainly have to cut our garment according to the cloth.

But what makes a city actually grow is industry, to give work and manufacturing plants add everything you need.

Get busy, interest Capital, open up employment, and that will be what a mill race is to a mill, start the water, the wheel turns, machinery runs, and everybody is busy, and all come in without knocking, and go out the same way.

Wilbert C. Baggett.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

Washington, Feb. 24.—The United States government has 2,400,000 cubic feet of helium gas, enough to fill the Roma twice, stored away in tanks in Texas and elsewhere, yet made no attempt to provide this non-combustible gas for the ill-fated Roma. Furthermore, enough money was appropriated by Congress last year to manufacture 3,000,000 cubic feet of helium, but the money was spent mainly in experiments looking to find a cheaper way to produce helium.

This information was obtained by the Gazette correspondent today from Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the Army Air Service, who, although he knows that helium would not have prevented an accident to the Roma, and may not even have prevented the explosion of the gas tanks on the ship, says that helium certainly would have prevented the disastrous hydrogen fire that followed the Roma's fall and might have saved a number of lives. Just who is responsible for the decision that kept the highly combustible hydrogen in the Roma while the government had 2,400,000 cubic feet of a non-combustible gas on hand is not known here. It is likely that a Congressional investigating committee will want to determine responsibility for the presence of the hydrogen in the Roma.

President Harding, it is understood, will not oppose certain reservations to the Four-Power act, provided they do not interfere with the main proposition as embodied in the treaty as agreed to by the United States, Great Britain, Japan and France. What the President does object to, however, is the reservation suggested by Senator Brandegee, one of the so-called Irreconciliables in that body. This reservation makes it clear that America is under no legal or moral obligations to maintain the rights of the other powers in the pact and that the consent of Congress is required to commit the United States to any adjustment or understanding resulting from the treaty. The President takes the position that this proposed reservation might indicate to the other powers a lack of faith of the United States in the treaty. A substitute for the Brandegee resolution has been proposed by Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, which is to be considered by the Committee today.

Proposal for a "selective bonus" to pay a bonus only to the sick, disabled and needy has been made by Representative Ansorge, of New York Ansorge proposes that those who do not need the bonus should not receive it, that a wholesale raid on the Treasury for the benefit of the rich, healthy and able-bodied ex

PAPERS FOUND

Six in Divorce Investigation Returned to Clerk's Office—Guardian Ad Litem Named

Pursuant to the request of the attorneys comprising the special committee of seven of the Alexandria Bar Association probing the alleged divorce evil here, Judge Moncure now in all cases appoints a guardian ad litem in all divorce cases and today in the suit brought by Irene H. Havelick against Francis J. Havelick he named A. B. Nicol as such. The suit was instituted by Attorney T. Morris Mapler, of Washington.

It was announced this morning in the office of the clerk of the court that six of the papers missing in certain divorce cases had been found and returned to that office.

LYNCHING BILL BEING HELD UP

Senate Subcommittee Do Not Seem Disposed to Press Measure

Overman and Shields Southern Senators, Are Strongly Opposed to the Proposed Legislation

Washington, Feb. 24.—The Dyer anti-lynching bill, which recently passed the House over the protests of Southern Democrats, who declared it both unconstitutional and unwise, probably will have a long sleep in the Senate Committee on Judiciary.

It developed today that this bill had been referred to a subcommittee consisting of Senators Borah, Colt and Dillingham, Republicans, and Overman and Shields, Democrats.

No plans have been made for a meeting of the subcommittee, and there seems no disposition on the Senate side to press the anti-lynching legislation.

Senator Overman and Senator Shields, coming from North Carolina and Tennessee, respectively, are strongly opposed to the Dyer bill. Senator Borah, chairman of the subcommittee, is a stickler for the Constitution, and there is grave doubt of the constitutionality of the Dyer bill. Senator Colt, a former Federal judge, is also a Constitutional authority.

Should the bill ever be reported to the Senate the Southern members are prepared to filibuster against it for weeks or months.

C. Keith Carlin Heads "Y" General Committee

Youngest Campaign Head In Virginia—Plan to Raise $75,000 For Alexandria Association Building And Equipment

INTENSIVE DRIVE BEGINS SOON

Alexandria has the Honor of Having Organized the Second Y. M. C. A. in America and One of the First in the World, In 1853—Present Organization is Young But Vigorous—Plans Include Business Men and Girls as Well as Boys.

C. Keith Carlin has been selected general chairman of the campaign committee to raise $75,000 to put the Young Men's Christian Association on a permanent basis in Alexandria, Secretary Wallace as the local association made this announcement upon his return from the State Sunday School convention at Charlottesville this morning.

This unusual honor comes to Mr. Carlin after several months of deliberation on the part of special committees of the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. The special committee which unanimously asked the board of directors to persuade Mr. Carlin to accept the chairmanship announces that he is the youngest general chairman to head a campaign in Virginia.

Several months ago the board of directors decided after consultation with many of Alexandria's leading citizens that the city was entitled to a thoroughly equipped Y. M. C. A., being one of the few cities of its size, not only in Virginia but the entire country, not having such an institution for its young men and boys.

It was thought at first that a temporary arrangement could be made by possibly adapting an old building to the use of the association, but the younger members of the board strongly advised against this, and after several meetings the objective of the financial campaign was finally placed at $75,000, which the board hought was the least with which the association could actually be established.

The plans of the board are not complete, a sthe executive and advisory committees of the campaign under Mr. Carlin will be asked to asisst in every way to reach the best conclusions for the establishment of a Y. M. C. A. that the city will be proud of and which will reflect credit upon Alexandria for all time.

The general chairman, himself a young man, having been born in Alexandria less than thirty years ago. He was raised in Alexandria without a Y. M. C. A., and says he desires his two sons to have the advantage of an organization whose chief aim is to develop the four-fold life of men and boys. He was educated in the public schools of the city and then went to Randolph-Macon, where he took his A. B. degree in 1912.

Mr. Carlin later attended the National University in Washington, where he received his L. L. B. in 1914, and a year later finished the institution with a Master of Laws degree. He then began practicing law in Alexandria with his father, former Congressman C. C. Carlin, with whom he remained until the outbreak of the war, when he joined the army.

At the close of that world conflict the general chairman took up the practice of his chosen profession again, being associated with his father in Washington and Alexandria. He has always been connected with the best interests of the city and was enthusiastically associated with a number of the men of the city a few years ago in an effort to establish a golf and country club near by.

Upon the recommendation of the special committee of the board of directors, of which Carroll Pierce was chairman, that Mr. Carlin be general chairman, the board unanimously adopted the selection. Mr. Carlin asked some time to look into the plans of the campaign and the posisbilities of a permanent association for the city. His investigations extended throughout the State and the whole country.

He was surprised to find that the second Y. M. C. A. in America and one of the first to be established in the world was organized in Alexandria in 1853. But like many other good things, Alexandria allowed the association to slip from its grasp. Many other atempts were made from time to time to bring the association here, but always with the same results—failure.

These attempts were considered by the general chairman, as he did not desire to add another casualty to the list. However, he discovered that every city in Virginia of any size had a Y. M. C. A., many of them being much smaller than Alexandria. He also realized that the city had no bathing beach and no place to construct one, and that it was doubtful whether the river water would be sufficiently pure for public bathing should a suit-

FOUR NEW YORK BROKERS GO TO WALL IN ONE DAY

More Than Thirty Firms Have Failed During Past Month

BURKE'S STATEMENT

Former United States Treasurer Says He Has Lost Everything —Will Resume Law Practice

New York, Feb. 24.—Financial storms in speculative Wall street, which swept the brokerage firm of Kardos & Burke into bankruptcy, hit four more houses yesterday.

Involuntary petitions in bankruptcy were filed in Federal Court against S. S. Ruskay & Co., liabilities estimated at $2,500,000 and assets at $1,500,000.

J. W. Ball & Co., liabilities estimated at $1500,000 and assets at $10,000

Rodney & Co., liabilities and assets not given.

The New York curb market announced the suspension of Rasmussen & Co. for alleged failure to meet its engagements.

A steady stream of failures for the last month, with resultant heavy loss to customers throughout the United States and Canada, recently led District Attorney Banton to start an investigation of alleged irregular practices by brokers, the most common of which was alleged to be the bucketing of orders.

Of 30-odd firms that have gone into bankruptcy since the first of the year, 12 have been found by grand juries to have operated in a manner to warrant indictment of some of their members. Nineteen persons are under indictment, and several of them are under indictment disappeared from the city.

Unusual interest attached to the Kardos & Burke failure because of the fact that the junior member of the firm, John Burke was treasurer of the United States under former President Wilson.

He resigned that post in 1921 to go into business with Kardos, a 26-year-old broker who started in Wall street eight years ago as a $10-a-week messenger boy.

Kardos, son of a wealthy Chicagoan, was reported out of the city yesterday. Burke said he understood his partner had gone to a suburban town for a few days.

"The whole thing reminds me of the old adage," Burke said, "that a cobbler should stick to his last. I am a lawyer by profession. I made a mistake going into the brokerage business, concerning which I find I knew too little.

"I want the situation cleaned up, all transactions of the firm opened wide to the public. I know such a process would absolve me personally, and I have not the slightest doubt but that it would clear up insinuations against the firm."

Burke said his contract with Kardos had an iron-clad proviso that neither member of the firm should engage in trading on his own account, nor engage in any trading on the exchange without the other's consent. Although he admitted he had not followed the affairs of the firm closely, he declared his belief that Kardos had lived up to the letter of the contract. Burke said he had lost everything in the crash.

"As soon as this thing is cleared up," he concluded, "I shall start anew to build up my fortunes—but as a lawyer this time." Burke is 62.

Complainants against the Rusky firm presented claims of $11,000 which they declared the firm was unable to pay.

Harrisonburg—H. W. Palmer, T. B. Saunders and Bessie Moses, of Roanoke, arrested here by police and county officials on a charge of bootlegging, were found guilty by a jury in Circuit Court yesterday.

Norfolk Raises Quota For Jewish Relief

In Less Than Two Weeks $35,000 Has Been Subscribed—City was Systematically Covered

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 23d—Norfolk has gone over the top. In less than two weeks its quota of $35,000 for relief of Jewish war sufferers has been subscribed and contributions continue to come into local headquarters. This wonderful showing is due in a measure to the splendid organization that was built up for the work headed by Chairman J. B. Hecht. His workers, most energentic young men, organized into teams, directed by capable captain, covered every part of the city systematically.

The work, however, got a great impetus from the mass meeting held in the temple at which Rev. Dr. Louis D. Mendoza was the chief speaker. At that meeting, $10,000 was subscribed and with this encouraging foundation the campaign workers went forth with zeal that knew no defeat.

Splendid co-operation was received everywhere, for a non-sectarian appeal was made to all citizens. The newspapers did their share in arousing general interest in the appeal and the result was a most generous and pleasing response.

The enthusiasm of the workers was due in no small measure not only to the addres made by Dr. Mendoza but to the heart-to-heart talk given by Mrs. Alexander Kohut, a field worker, who came to Norfolk at the special request of State Chairman Moe Levy and who spoke to the workers at a dinner arranged for that purpose by Chairman Moe Levy and Secretary Bertram S. Nusbaum.

The experience hand of State Chairman Levy was also noticeable in the formation of the teams covering the territory but particularly in obtaining the services of Mr. J. B. Hecht to direct the campaign.

New York, Feb., 23d—James M Cox, Democratic presidential candidate in the last election, yesterday added his contribution to hundreds of others that have come in the past few days to the Woodrow Wilson Foundation from men and women prominent in the social and political life of the country, Mr. Cox sent a check for $200 to headquarters of the Foundation in this city, stating that he was also making a contribution to the quota being raised in Ohio by Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War in Mr. Wilson's cabinet.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard M. Baruch, also among the contributors yesterday, each sent $500 to the fund that is to endow the Wilson Awards for public service. M. Baruch was a member of the American delegation at the Peace Conference in Paris and has always been a warm supporter of the former President.

It was reported from Spokane, Washington, that Hugh Wallace, former Ambassador to France had paid a tribute to his former chief by subscribing $200 to the fund being raised in that state. Other contributors reported yesterday were Nathan Strauss, former New York merchant; and Sherman D. Whipple, the well-known Boston attorney, each of whom sent a check for $100 to the Foundation.

Among the younger contributors for the day were three grand-children of Mr. Wilson. Francis B. Sayre, Jr., Eleanore Sayre, and Woodrow Wilson Sayre brought some pennies that they had saved to the office of the Foundation in Boston and signed the huge guest book there that is to be sent to Mr. Wilson when Massachusetts has completed its campaign. Mrs. Sayre, youngest daughter of the former President, accompanied the children.

Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the Union Pacific System, sent a contribution of $100 from Riverside, Cal. The stenographic force of the law firm of Root, Clark and Howland of which Elihu Root is a member, sent $10. Checks for $100 each came from Herbert Noble and Mrs. H. F. Haas, both of New York.

The most distant contribution for the day was Mrs. Hide Inouye of Tokio, Japan, a former Columbia University student, who is now one of the most prominent women in her country. In making her contribution, she said that the disappearance of the militarist spirit in Japan is largely due to work of Mr. Wilson.

Many Republican contributions were recorded during the day. W. H. Thompson, a prominent member of that party in Hightown, N. J., reported that the employees in his factory had raised $100 in small amounts. From Illinois it was reported that Morton D. Hull, of Chicago, and Logan Hay, of Springfield, two of the best known Republicans in the state, are giving vigorous support to the movement.

Mrs. Montgomery Hare, chairman of the women's committee of the Foundation for the metropolitan district of New York announced last night that Heywood Broun, newspaperman and author, will be one of the speakers at the Wilson Mass Meeting to be held at the Playhouse at noon, Friday, February 24. Dr. Henry van Dyke, of Princeton, will also speak. The public is invited to the meeting.

Offices where contributions are now being made in this city are at 150 Nassau street, fifth floor; 120 East 59th street; and 17 East 42nd street, Room 504.

C. & P. TELEPHONE CO.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 21.—As a result of an informal investigation made by the State Corporation Commission of the operations of The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia, it is found that that Company during the year 1921 earned a return of 5.6 per cent. on the fair value of its property used in the public service in Virginia. At the beginning of the year the Commission called upon the Company for detailed statements of its revenues and expenses, by months, for the past year and the figures have been closely studied by the Commission.

The total receipts of the Company for the year amount to $4,635,526.92 and its total expenses, including taxes and depreciation reserve, amount to $3,807,595.89. The net earnings, therefore, were $827,931.03.

The fair value of the property of the Company as determined by the Commission as of June 30, 1920, amounted to $18,223,912.37. To this added the net additions to the property since that time after deducting retirements, amounting to $14,773,668.24.

The Commission in 1920 estimated that the increased rates then allowed would, on the basis of costs as of that period, make a return to the Company of 6:37 per cent and the Commission then expressed the hope that with declining costs and economics resulting therefrom the Company would gradually make a better showing. This has been justified to the extent that the Company's net earnings have now reached a return of a little more than 5½ per cent. on the value of its property.

The Threatened Coal Strike:

It seems to be the general opinion that there will be a coal strike on April first and, without having any special knowledge on the subject, we advise our customers to secure enough coal IMMEDIATELY to carry them through THE REMAINDER OF THIS SEASON.

This advice is intended for the domestic user of coal, but to those using coal for other purposes we advise storing A REASONABLE RESERVE, before the increased agitation makes it hard to do this, which is almost sure to happen during next month.

soldiers should be avoided, but so far as could be learned his suggestion will receive little attention from the framers of the general bonus bill who will go ahead with their plan to give every man a bonus no matter where he served or what his condition is at this time. The New York Congressman's proposal was made in a letter to Representative Fordney of Mich., Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee.

Senator Swanson, of Virginia, and a majority of the Democratic Senators are awaiting the action of the Committee in charge of bonus legislation to present some some sort of a plan for paying the former soldiers before making known their positions on the subject. Up to the present time, it is pointed out, there is no definite plan laid before the Congress to take care of the bonus. Many suggestions have been made but it is impossible in the present circumstances for any Democratic Senator to define his position clearly on this important matter.

Senator Swanson has been giving the question a good deal of attention and study. Naturally, he believes that all deserving ex-service men, those who are in need of attention at the hands of the government, should be cared for. If an adjusted compensation bill should come out of the committee having it in charge which would seem to the Senator to be a reasonable solution of the problem, he would give it his support But it is too early yet for him to say any thing about his attitude upon a proposition which is not even before him for consideration.

This, he thought, argued strongly for a community swimming pool. He also discovered that aside from a small beginning which has just been made recently, the city had no systematic scheme of physical education for its growing boys and girls and tired business men. This, he thought, also proved conclusively that the city was justly entitled to a community gymnasium of sufficient proportions to accommodate the whole city.

The general chairman then asked that certain specific problems be undertaken that would assure the effort being well worth while. These were all readily agreed to by the committee and the task definitely undertaken as announced.

Mr. Carlin announced that the dates of the final drive will be the week of April 24, and that the campaign will be an "all or nothing" affair. That is, the entire amount will be raised or the amounts subscribed by the citizens will not be binding. This is the plan most usually adopted in all association campaigns and is the one most approved by the finance bureau

THURSDAY, FEB. 24, 1814

A lad about 15 years old, belonging to Gun Boat No. 155, was run through the body, with a sword, a few days ago by William Kripgans, masters mate of the same boat, and died instantly. This barborous act, we understand, was done without any provocation whatever.—Kripgans is delivered into the custody of the civil authorities.

On Saturday night last, a soldier of the U. S. Army, in passing a centinel at Fort Nelson, was hailed, but refusing to answer, and still keeping on, the centinel fired and killed him on the spot—A court martial was held the next day on the centinel and he was honorably acquitted.

of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A.

Definite plans for the campaign are now being worked out and Mr. Carlin announces that he will expect to devote a large proportion of his time to the work of the association for the next two months. He and Secretary Wallace will visit New York in a few days, where the finance and building bureaus of the international committee will be consulted in an effort to thoroughly familiarize the new chairman with the task to which he is so unselfishly to devote himself for the next few weeks.

C. C. Lamond, president of the board of directors of the "Y," announces that enlarged quarters will be secured for the campaign and that State Secretary Lee, of Richmond, will be in charge of the technical problems of the campaign. He also announced that several secretaries of the State would be consulted as to their local problems that might be helpful in the campaign here.

in the case was to "get back at him," He then came to Alexandria and swore out a warrant against Mrs. Mary L. Baggett, who was a witness as to the residence of his wife, charging perjury, and stated that it was his intention to institute proceedings against his wife later; that the reason he had not done so was that she was out of the jurisdiction of this court.

Attorney Wilson M. Farr, representing Davis and Budwesky, questioned Wright as to his signature on several papers, and particularly as to a letter purporting to have been written by Wright, offering to pay all expenses of his wife in establishing a Virginia residence, under certain conditions. Mr. Farr asked Wright if it were not true that he, at the time of the filing of the suit, was charged with an "infamous offense," and Wright admitted that he was charged with obtaining goods under false pretenses.

Chairman H. W. Smith requested Attorney Frank Stuart to give the committee some information regarding certain newspaper articles in which charges of improper practices had been made, one of the charges being that "hundreds of divorce cases are on record showing how the parties, through false affidavits, forgeries, collusion and malfeasance, obtained divorces from their helpmates without the second party having knowledge of the proceedings." Mr. Stewart stated that so far as perjury was concerned, the case of Wright vs. Wright was the only one he had in mind; as to false affidavits, the records of the committee would show that from 115 to 130 persons claimed to reside with Mrs. Baggett during one month; that he believed there was no question about notices of publication being sent to ficticious addresses, as at least ten people had been in his office and stated that notices of publication of their suits had been sent to addresses at which they had never lived. He mentioned the cases of Bailey vs. Bailey, and Randall vs. Randall as specific instances, and said he would endeavor to present other cases to the committee.

As to malfeasance in office, Mr. Stuart stated that it was the duty of the court to take cognizance of the large number of affidavits as to residence made by Mrs. Baggett and others who appeared in court almost daily as witnesses in divorce cases, prior to his elevation to the bench, particularly as the judge himself, had used Mrs. Baggett as a witness in numerous cases handled by him as attorney.

Mr. Smith questioned Mr. Stuart as to his reference to the bar association committee being "hand-picked," and Mr. Stuart replied that he had felt through the entire investigation that of the men selected for the committee, the only ones from whom one might expect a fair report were Judge Norton, Judge Nicol, J. Randall Caton and C. Keith Carlin; that in his opinion Messrs. Smith, Boothe and Barley had "clearly shown their hand in this investigation," that is, that they had taken the part of the defense.

Attorney J. Randall Caton asked Attorney J. R. Caton asked whether the subcimmittee as fair, and the reply was that he considered it an "absolutely sincere effort to get at the facts, upon which the committee should be congratulated." Mr. Smith, Whom Mr. Stuart had just criticized, was a member of the subcommittee.

Mrs. Deborah Johnson Lyons, of 417 South St. Asaph street, came before the committee and was asked to give the committee any information she might have. It developed that her complaint was that, after having obtained a limited divorce and alimony from her husband during the regime of Judge Barley, she had gone to Judge Moncure with a demand that he assist her in collecting alimony. Several rules against the recalcitrant husband were entered, and efforts made by the city sergeant to arrest him, without success.

Mrs. Maggie Self Boothe, of 214 North Royal street, had a similar complaint. Mrs. Boothe complained that she had been badly treated. Both she and Mrs. Lyons were attempting to collect alimony for the support of their children.

Before adjourning, the committee held an informal discussion, and it was the consensus of opinion that while Frank Stuart, as a member of the Alexandria bar, had been permitted to make his statement to the committee in such manner as best suited him, the committee at this time could only take cognizance of so much of it as related directly to the divorce conditions which the committee had been directed to investigate.

The meeting then adjourned to meet Friday, March 3, at 10 a. m. in the corporation courtroom.

IN MEMORIAM

HEFLIN—In sad but loving remembrance of our dear son, IRVIN WELLINGTON HEFLIN, who died one year ago today, February 24, 1921.

The month of February 24, 1921.
here,
To us the saddest of the year,
Today recalls sad memories
Of our loved boy gone to rest.
In my heart your memory lingers,
Tenderly, sweetly, fond and true.
There is not a day dear Irvin,
That I do not think of you.
Never shall I cease to love you,
Nor my memory of you fade,
Sweetest thoughts forever linger
Around the grave where you are laid.
Nobody knows my longing,
But few have seem me weep,
I shed my tears from an aching heart
When others are fast asleep.
Torn from the heart that loved you,
Gone in the best of your days,
Loved by the mother that knew you,
To rest in a silent grave.
Can I help but feel so lonely,
When his voice I don't hear,
For no words were ever sweeter,
Than the words he spoke so dear.
The midnight stars are shining,
Upon a silent grave,
Where sleeps my darling angel boy
The one we could not save.

His Loving Mother.

'RAH, FOR THE UNIVERSITY!

The University of Virginia has won out in the strenuous contest that has been waging for months past, to take away its Medical Department and merge it with the Richmond institution, removing it to the latter city. The fight was a fierce one and occasioned hot debate on the floor of the State Senate. But the friends of the University were victorious, and it is to be hoped that the question is now forever settled. The Gazette has favored the retention of the medical school at Charlottesville from the first. Our congratulations and best wishes go out to President Alderman, whose heart is, we know, rejoiced beyond measure.

SEGREGATION OF TAXES

There is a bill now pending in the Legislature, involving the segregation of taxes, that we hope will not fail of passage. Alexandria is interested in it to the extent of an actual gain on Real Estate and Tangible Property amounting to $21,823.72. The loss on taxation of Intangible Property, it is true, would amount to $10,264.48, but the net gain would equal $11,559.24. The figures as to all the counties and cities would mean a gain on Real Estate and Tangible Property of $2,834,682.85. The loss to the State at large would be readily compensated by an increased rendition of intangibles.

We call the attention of our delegate and state senator to this bill and trust they will render it due support when it comes up.

WOMEN AND VIRGINIA LAWS

The National Woman's Party, headquarters at Washington, have sent out an interesting little brochure as to the status of woman under our state laws. We have long thought that the discrimination against the other sex has been unjust in many instances, and it seems to us that the National Woman's Party have made out a good case, in most of their charges. They set forth that fathers are given practically complete control over their children and mothers almost no control. That a woman can not choose her home or say of whom the family circle shall consist. That a married woman's property is presumed to belong to her husband, unless proof to the contrary is shown. That the inheritance laws discriminate against women. That the grounds for divorce are unequal. That women can not serve on juries. And finally, that women are not admitted to the State University on equal terms with men.

Some of their objections go to the very root of the institutions of property and the family, and it is a very serious problem as to how to change them. But on the whole, we are inclined to believe that our laws should be changed in many instances so as to readjust them to the new status of woman in the State.

PRISONERS' AID

Smythe, local representative of the society, will preside and introduce the speakers. The public is cordially invited to attend this meeting.

DAIRY COOPERATION

Charlottesville, Va., Feb. 23.—The universal need for associated effort on the part of farmers, dairymen and stock breeders was explained by H. E. Van Norman, president of the World's Dairy Congress Association, in speaking today at the convention of the Virginia State Dairymen's Association. Dean Van Norman, who was "loaned" by the University of California to prepare for the Congress after having headed the National Diary Asociation—the organization which holds the National Dairy show annually—for ten consecutive terms, was a delegate to the National Agricultral Conference. He said in part:

"The recent conference, called together at Washington by Secretary Wallace, of the Department of Agricultur and opened by President Harding, stands in my mind for one, big dairy and stock breeder. It seems to me to have been an official recognition by the national goverment of the essential unity of American farm industries, a recognition of the need for the men engaged in those industries from Maine to Texas and from Virginia to California to get together, a recognition of the modern demand for cooperation. If the National Agricultural Conference achieved no other result than to impress this thought upon the minds of the countrymen of America, it served a purpose of the highest import.

"Our nation was established by one man-enterprise—the one-man farm whose products fed and clothed the family, the one-man store, the one-man black-smith shop, the one-man stagecoach, the one-man mail service. What distinguishes the nation today is the fruit of associated, or organized, effort. Transportation, communication, manufacture, merchandising are all conducted by great groups, often of thousands of individuals, each with its leadership of superior ability—leadership which has been carned by the survival of the fittest in years of competition.

Because every farm is a home, it is not likely to become factory organized; but agriculture, like other industries, has come to a time when all its problems cannot be solved by the farmer acting as an individual. Farmers must associate in groups. They must acquire the assistance and benefits or associated effort under skiled leadership. Successful leadership is the result of accumiated experience. The permanence and effectiveness of associated groups in agricultural efforts depends upon the development of sucessful leaders. able to read all factors aright, to think rightly and to decide rightly, to the end that all in the groups may prosper better because of the leadership and the associated effort.

"The prices of dairy products of all classes in all communities is determined primarily by the law or supply and demand. Surplus or shortage in Australia, New Zealand. Argentine, Siberia, Denmark, as well as in the United States affects the price of dairy products in America. Organized effort may effect economies, may correct local injustices temporarily thwarting fundamental economic law; but cannot endure by exercise of monopolistic control of prices—as witnessed by repeated failures of cooperated effort unwisely exercised. The success of the Pacific coast fruit, nut and raisin organizations lies in the skill with which they have eliminated unnecessary expense of distribution and carried their products to the consumer at prices which would insure the total consumption of the available supply. They early learned that a price that was too high resulted in a corresponding failure to market all their product. Insufficient price dscourages production and must of necessity eliminate the latest efficient producer. Associated effort standardized producer rewards quality, penalizes inefficiency. The economies effected loften increases the returns sufficiently to change failure into financial success for the year's effort.

"The World's Dairy Congress is planned to recognize the world unity of the dairy industry which furnishes a most essential human food. Through it, we hope to encourage associated effort, to develop leaders, to advance and exchange knowledge of science and economics and to improve standards within the industry and to increase public appreciation of milk products."

Internal Revenue Pointers

With the repeal by the revenue act of 1921 of the so-called "luxury tax" on articles of men's and women's wearing apparel and other changes in tax legislation, the Bureau of Internal Revenue has issued new regulations (47 and 48) relating respectively to the excise tax on sales by the manufacturer of certain articles—automobiles and accessories, cameras, candy, fire arms, cigars and cigarette holders, liveries, hunting garments, carpets, rugs, trunks, etc.—and the exercise tax on works of art and jewelery.

The principal changes in the latter taxes are that the tax on works of art is reduced from 10 to 5 per cent and that the tax on jewelry and similar articles, which remains at 5 per cent no longer includes gold or silver ornamental glasses and .spectacles The tax on works of art attaches on all sales except the original sale by the artist, a sale to an educational institution or public art museum and sales by dealers for resale.

Fountain pens equipped with gold pen points are also taxable. Safety razors with silver or imitation silver handles or attachments are likewise taxable.

Monthly returns and payment of the tax on works of art and jewelry are required of the vender.

Section 904 of the revenue act of 1921, which in the revenue act of 1918 included the tax on certain articles of wearing apparel, provides only for a tax of 5 per cent of the amounts paid for the following articles in excess of the following prices; carpets, $4.50 a square yard; rugs, $6 a square yard trunks, $35 each; valises, traveling bags, suit cases, hat boxes used by travelers and fitted toilet cases, $25 each; purses, pocket books, shopping bags, $5 each; portable lightning fixtures, lamps of all kinds and lamp shades, $10 each; and fans $1 each. This tax is not payable by the purchaser, but by the manufacturers, producers or importer, who are required to make monthly returns and payments.

Copies of regulations 47 and 48 may be had on personal application at the office of Collector of Internal Revenue, Richmond, Virginia, and the following branch offices: Norfolk, Alexandria, Lynchburg, and Roanoke.

America's Future Oil Resources

Although it is estimated that at the present rate of production the oil fields of the United States would be exhausted in about twenty years, these figures do not indicate that the country's petroleum resources will come to an end within that period, according to the National Bank of Commerce in New York. The country's wells are likely to show long periods of declining productivity before their final depletion, and the nation's huge deposits of oil shale offer enormous supplies as soon as it becomes economical to use them, the bank points out in its magazine, Commerce Monthly, for February.

"If an annual rate of production of 450,000,000 barrels, a figure nearly reached in 1920 and probably exceeded in 1921, were to be maintained in the United States until the wells were exhausted, the known supply would run out in about twenty years," Commerce Monthly says. "These oil fields, however, are likely to show long periods of declining productivity before they are completely exhausted. It is impossible to estimate when the United States will have used up its petroleum resources, but a period of constantly decreasing production with occasional increases as new wells are opened up and new methods of recovery are instituted may be expected to begin within the next few years.

"To meet the emergency of a declining output of petroleum the United States has in reserve huge deposits of oil shale from which great quantities of petroleum products may be obtained when it becomes economical to produce them. Enormous amounts of oil shale rich in oil are found in northwestern Colorado, northeastern Utah, southwestern Wyoming and in northern Nevada. Deposits of more limited extent and generally less rich are located in Pennsylvania, Indiana, Kentucky, Texas, Wisconsin, Michigan, West Virginia and elsewhere. Though the oil shale industry is of long standing in other parts of the world, notably Scotland, France and Australia, it has not yet passed the experimental stage in the United States.

"The United States has long been pre-eminent in the petroleum industry, but it occupies the unenviable position of exhausting its resources much more rapidly than the rest of the world. Starting with a supply estimated at 14 billion barrels, it has used up some 5 billion, leaving only about 9 billion barrels, or 64 per cent of its original resources, still available. On the other hand, the world outside the United States is thought to have 56 billion barrels, or over 90 per cent of its original supply of approximately 60 billion barrels. As the United States regularly produces three-fifths or more of the world's annual output, each year finds this country in a relatively worse position.

"While the using up of natural resources is deplorable, still the material gains resulting from their exploitation should not be overlooked, nor in a large measure the gradual exhaustion of American petroleum has been offset by the advances of American industries thus made possible.

"It is significant of the peculiar conditions prevailing in the production of petroleum that, despite prevailing business depression, accompanied by a fall in petroleum prices, the output in the first elevn months of 1921 showed an increase of 6 per cent over a like period in 1920. The gain was shared by all but the Illinois field, whose production has regularly been falling off in recent years.

"Depression in the pertoleum industry does, however, limit to some extent the drilling of wells in known fields, and to an even greater degree the exploration of new territory. Since production is sustained only by drilling an increasing number of wells in any given field, and since new territory must be opened up to compensate for exhaustion of old fields, a decline in drilling is after a time followed by a falling off in production. Conversely, a period of prosperity brings increased production after a delay of months.

"Thus, while the increasing production in the first part of 1921 was probably a result of the prosperity in 1919 and the first part of 1920, there is likely to be a period of declining output ahead which will reflect the depression of the first part of 1921. The number of new oil wells completed fell off from about 1,830 in January, 1921, to about 752 in October, the latter fig ure being the smallest in the last five years. November returns, however, show an increase to 903 wells."

Methodist Pay-Up Week

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 23.—Through out Southern Methodist terri tory special periods, known as pay-up week are being observed in the interest of Centenary collections. At this time it is expected that every member of the Methodist Church who made a subscription of the Centenary of Missions Movement will make some payment on that pledge.

In this work the presiding elders, pastors, missionary secretaries and Centenary treasurers are to have leadership and a statement is to be given each subscriber and an appeal made for the payment of the amount due to date. Owing to depressed business and financial conditions, it is said that in many sections the payments have not been in keeping with the record made by the churches in the matter of subscriptions. Subscriptions were made on a five-year basis, and more than one-half of the total subscriptions are now due. An earnest effort will be made during the "pay-up" movement throughout Southern Methodist territory to bring all payments up to date. Drs. W. B. Beauchamp, J. J. Stowe, W. B. Ricks, J. S. Chadwick and others who have made annual conference visitation report interest in the Centenary still keen, and state that there is every disposition on the part of the people to make good their pledges.

Since according to the Centenary plan, 10 per cent of all Centenary moneys collected is returned to the annual conferences to be applied to home mission work, it is expected that Methodists in this section will seek to make as good a showing as possible during pay-up week in order that Centenary funds will be available for local mission work. Reports from central headquarters at Nashville, Tenn., indicate that in many localities the "pay-up-week" period has been consummated with gratifying results.

Prof. Adolf Lorenz of Vienna University endorses NEMO Corsets and NEMO Service exclusively

PROF OF ORTHOPEDICS
VIENNA UNIVERSITY

December 30, 1921.

My dear Mr. Kops:

I have carefully examined the Nemo Corsets you submitted to me and find that the appliances which are attached to them are in various ways most ingeniously constructed for the purpose of giving relief, support and protection to the contained abdominal and pelvic organs. These corsets are of great importance to women due to their prophylactic curative and corrective properties, providing the lesions have not become chronic.

I consider that the most valuable qualities in these corsets are the combined services of producing symmetrical proportions, at the same time giving effective physical relief and comfort to women suffering with organic diseases to which the modern woman is prone.

It is the experience of the medical profession in general that mechanical devices which have to be prescribed for alleviative or curative purposes will not be used by women if they conflict with or destroy the natural symmetry of their figures. My study of the construction of Nemo Corsets has convinced me that their hygienic features blend harmoniously with a woman's natural form.

I specially recommend some of these ingeniously constructed corsets for those women who have relaxed, stretched and weak abdominal muscles or walls, nephroptosis, (floating kidney) ptosed stomach and ptosis, or prolapse of any abdominal or pelvic organ, while other devices in Nemo Corsets are of immeasurable value to the stout woman with the abnormally large abdomen, which is heavy with adipose tissue. It seems to me that these corsets are particularly beneficial to that large class of women who are actively engaged in work which requires much physical exertion.

Prof Adolf Lorenz

You will find in our corset department on the second floor, a complete line of NEMO CORSETS.

The Truth About The Railroads

Were Railroad Workers Overpaid During Federal Control

Spokesmen for the railroad interests have charged that during the period of Federal control the workers took advantage of the labor shortage to wring excessive and unwarranted wages from the goverment. This claim has been put forward with the obvious object of prejudicing public opinion against railway workers.

In the interest of truth it is important that the facts be established.

Testifying before the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, February 1, 1922, William Gibbs McAdoo, former director general of railroads during the first year of Federal Control, said:

"An absolute essential to the achievement of these imperative needs (relieving the unprecedented congestion of traffic and restoring efficient operation of the railroads) was to satisfactorily dispose of the labor problems.

"Railroad employes throughout the country were thoroughly discontented and strikes were impending everywhere.

"The railroad executives had testified before the Interstate Commerce Commission and elsewhere that railroad wages were below the scale paid in competitive industries and had been seeking increases in rates in order that they might increase wages.

Railroad Labor Grossly Underpaid.

"Railroad labor was grossly underpaid and there were many grave abuses in the matter of working conditions on the railroads which needed correction.

"It was clear that the railroad employes could not be expected to work for the railroads at lower rates of pay than they could command in the competitive industries throughout the country.

"The high cost of living had made it impossible for many of them to live on the wages they were receiving and it was clearly in the interest of justice and right, to say nothing of the wisdom and reason of the policy, to bring their wages to a level which would enable the railroads to command the requisite amount of service and to prevent continued depletion of their forces, with the constant labor turnover which railroad managers themselves had insisted was one of the reasons why they were unable to make the railroads function efficiently.

Before the Interstate Commerce Commission, in March, 1917, President Underwood, of the Erie President Samuel Rea, of the Pennsylvania; President Smith, of the New York Central, and several other railroad executives complained that the low wages being paid workers were driving thousands of men out of railroad service and preventing the efficient operation of the railroads.

Commission Choses to Study Wages.

Mr. McAdoo testiled that between the coordinating demands of the workers and the managers for increased wages he was unwilling to act solely upon his own judgement. Accordingly, on January 18, 1918, he created a Railway Wage Commission to inquire into the subject and make a finding.

This commission was composed of the late Franklin K. Lane, then Secretary of the Interior; C. C. McChord, member of the Interstate Commerce Commission; J. H. Covington, chief justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, and W. R. Wilcox, Chairman of the National Republican Committee.

"This Commission," Mr. McAdoo testified, "upon exhaustaive investigation, found that ranging from 43 per cent for the lowest paid to nothing for the highest paid.

"In this connection, the findings of this commission utterly refute the charges that railroad employes took advantage of the war emergency to wring undeserved and unreasonable concessions in wages from the goverment. The Commission said:

"It has been a somewhat popular impression that railroad employes were among the most highly paid workers. But figures gathered from the railroads disposed of this belief."

After a year of war and two years of rising prices—when "each dollar represented in its power to purchase a place in which to live, food to eat and clothing to wear, but 71 cents as against 100 cents of January, 1916"—these wage rates were being paid by the railroads, according to the Wage Commission:

One hundred and eighty-one thousand six hundred and ninety-three (181,693) men received between $60 and 65 per month; 312,761 received from $65 to 75 per month; section men received $50.31 per month; the average $58.57 per month; freight brakemen and flagmen averaged $91.10.

Less than 3 per cent of all employes were receiving in excess of $150 per month.

Workers Steadfast

Mr. McAdoo quoted the following from the report of the Wage Commissoin:

"That there has been such steadfast loyalty to the railroads, and so slight a disposition to use the lever of their necessity and their opportunity to compel, by ruthless action, an increase of wages, is not without significance and should not be passed without public recognition."

These findings of the Wage Commission that railroad labor was not getting living wages, Mr. McAdoo said, were the sole basis for making a wage increase retroactive to January 1, 1918.

"Until recently no question was ever raised as to the justiee and propriety of the increases in wages so made—There was not the slightest complaint from any railroad executive that the wage increases promulgated on General Order No. 27 and in the supplements thereto were too high; and never at any time during that year were railroad wages too high.

"The fact is that railroad employes worked for less pay during the war than any other class of industrial workers doing similar work. The further fact is that no fair complaint can be made of the part the railroad employes performed during the war. The realization that they were working for their goverment in the stress and strain of war, that their patriotic service was essential to victory, and that they would be fairly treated, inspired and spurred them to unusual effort and to faithful service."

Value of Workers

"The railroad employes patriotically, gave up privileges and concessions which their organizations had obtained through many years of negotiation and controversy." These sacrifices, Mr. McAdoo added, in the cost of making locomotive repairs alone, resulted in an annual saving of $50,000,000.

The evidence, then, is that railroad workers were not overpaid, but that they were, before and during Federal control, underpaid, a discrimination that did not affect their loyal and efficient services.

CRIMINAL TO FLY ROMA SAYS ONE

Lieut. Smythe Wrote Father That Airship Was Defective

Officials Deny They Ever Heard of Faults—German Experts Predicted Disaster

Chicago, Feb. 24.—Lieutenant Clifford E. Smythe of Chicago, killed in the Roma disaster, wrote to his father just after the dirigible's recent trial flight to Washington that the airship was so unsafe that it would "be criminal negligence to fly her again without making changes in her construction, according to Dr. J. M. Nicholson, a friend of the Smythe family, who made the letter public tonight.

"The Roma behaved so badly on her first trial over Washington that she was declared unsafe," said the letter, according to Dr. Nicholson, "and a majority of those on board were advised to make the return trip by train. If anything has been done to alter her, except to change the engines, I don't know what it is. It looks to me like criminal negligence to fly her without making changes in her construction. But what can I do?"

"The dirigible seemed sluggish and slow to respond to the controls. While she ended the trip all right, she disobeyed her rudder several times in a way that was alarming. The result was that on her return trip from Washington unnecessary passengers and all members of the crew who could be spared were advised to go back by train."

Robert Smythe Jr., Lieutenant Smythe's brother, said Lieutenant Smythe made the return trip from Washington by boat.

CELEBRATIONS PAY

"The large number of Alexandrians lining the streets along which the Washington Birthday parade passed Wednesday gives evidence of how will ing the people of our town are to make these parades all that they did mean in years past." Thus spoke one prominent in business circles of Alexandria this morning.

"We can make this annual celebration of the birth date of the Father of His Country mean more to us than merely an occasion of enjoyment. We can make it worth real money to us.

"That last statement may seem a little broad, but this is the point. We are the center from which patriotism should naturally radiate in all directions. We can easily arrange for big parades and celebrations on each February 22. Then, being citizens of the city in which Washington practically had his home, our actions and celebrations would become of news value to all the newspapers throughout the country. This means that the Associated Press and various other world-wide news services would give us space in every paper in the country. The moving picture news services would come and take our pictures and show them all over the world. Some may ask what good could come of all this.

"Well, in this manner we could make the words Alexandria and patriotism almost synonymousr terms. We could make the world know that we exist. In short, we have at our service the wherewithal to secure more free advertising than any other city in the world, or at least we can come up with any.

"So, I venture to say that if we are able to revive and improve our celebration of February 22, we will have within our power the greatest advertising power in all the land—We will make real news for all the world, and what is of more advertising value than real news?

"I have not made all the points, I know, but I hope that I may be able to make some of our people see the value of our celebration."

After all, Newberry got in like Debs got out—by an act o' grace. Federal dry officers swooped down on th' blacksmith shop t'day, but it wuz only a horse gittin' shod.

TUESDAY

Tuesday, the third day o fthe week, gains its name from Tyr, in Scandinavian mythology the god of war, which became Tiw in Anglo-Saxon, hence Tiws day and eventually Tuesday in English.

Shrove Tuesday, the day preceding Ash Wednesday, is so-called from the old custom of confessing and receiving shrift on that day.

Shrove Tuesday, the final day of the pre-Lenten season, is in general a day of pleasure. It is the carnival of the Italians and the close of Mardi Gras of the French.

Pancake Tuesday in early English life was observed much the same as the modern Shrove Tuesday.

In presidential campaign years general election day is the Tuesday following the first Monday in November.

Tuesday is said to be the only day of the week that by some peoples is not observed as we observe the Sabbath.

For many years there have been no Tuesday weddings in Spain for the Spanish consider Tuesday an unlucky day for marriages.

Dietz Will Coach Indians

Williamsburg, Va., Feb. 21.—Carl Dietz, who coached the Richmond Athletic Club football team last year, will coach at the College of William and Mary for the next three years. A definite agreement between Coach Dietz and the college has been arrived at and contracts will be signed within the next few days, according to a statement made here today by President J. A. C. Chandler, of William and Mary.

The agreement between Dietz and the college will be in the form of a three-year contract, at a salary not divulged. Complete satisfaction is expressed here among the students and faculty at this selection of a coach to take the place of "Bill Fincher," who coached last season.

Carl Dietz has an enviable record as an athlete and then as a coach. He first played football as a member of the Washington State College eleven, being a regular end in 1912 and 1913, and being shifted to fullback for the seasons of 1914 and 1915. During his last year in Washington State he was captain of the eleven which won the Pacific Coast championship and then defeated Brown University in a post-season game at Pasadena on New Year's day. He was considered one of the best all-round athletes ever turded out at Washington State, being a four-letter man in track, and showing proficency in basketball.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear brother, BROWN MARSHALL HEFLIN, who departed this life January 27, 1921.

Day by day we saw him fade,
And slowly pass away,
Yet in our hearts we often prayed
He would longer stay.
Oh how we tried to save him,
Prayers and tears were all in vain
Happy angels came and bore him
From this world of grief and pain.
His Loving Sister.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of my dear brother-in-law, A. D. KANE, who suddenly departed this life February 14, 1922.

Of a loved one laid to rest,
And those who will remember him
Are those who loved him best.

Thirty-four lives were lost when the giant dirigible, Roma, purchased by the United States from Italy, exploded and crashed to earth in flames at Hampton Roads, Va. This photograph shows the queen of the air as a burnt, broken mass of debris, entailing a loss to the Government of probably $1,000,000. The disaster, which threw the nation into mourning recalls the explosion several months ago in England, of the giant dirigible ZR-2, in which forty-three lives were lost.

Rescuers Work Frantically to Extricate Roma Dead

Rescuers are shown here working frantically to locate and extricate bodies of airmen killed in the disastrous crash of the giant dirigible Roma at Hampton Roads. An ambulance stands in the background, slightly removed from the scene of the actual crash. This photograph was snapped as great throngs began to come from all directions to the scene of the fatal mishap.

Electric Wire Ignites Gas, Causing Roma Explosion

Explosion of the giant dirigible Roma, recently purchased by the United States from Italy, was caused by the ignition of leaking gas by a high voltage wire. The monster aircraft started her last flight downward when the elevation controls are believed to have given way. Hydrogen gas from her bursted tanks was ignited when the American queen of the air struck a high voltage wire about seventy feet from the ground. The steel structure of the great craft sagged quickly, burying most of the crew members under a seething caldron of flames.

Five of Original Crew Killed in Fall of Ill-Fated Roma.

Five members of the original crew of the ill-fated dirigible Roma, who went to Italy to bring the monster craft back to this country were killed in the crash near Hampton Roads. This photograph of the crew was taken just prior to sailing for Italy. From left to right (front row), Lieutenant W. J. Reed, Major J. G. Thornell (killed), and Captain Dale Marby (killed). Second row, Sergeant Hoffmann (killed), Sergeant Beiderbach, Staff Sergeant Bealle (killed), master Sergeant McNally (killed, and Master Sergeant Chapman.

Lieut. Riley Among Those Killed in Crash

Lieutenant William Edward Riley, of New York, was killed in the disastrous crash of the giant dirigible Roma, in which thirty-three others also lost their lives. Lieutenant Riley is survived by a widow and a young baby. He was twenty-five years old.

Famous Airman Will Try Flight From France

An attempt to fly from France to America in a Farnum plane, carrying twelve passengers, is to be made by Louis Gaubert, former army aviator of the Roosevelt Flying School. Gaubert recently sailed from New York for France. He expects to start the transocean flight within two months, he announced upon his departure.

Fredericksburg, Va.—During the sessions of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Virginia, held in Richmond last week, a delegation from Fredericksburg Lodge No. 4, A. F. and A. M., composed of C. R. Howard, Franklin Stearns, Samuel Woodbridge and Rev. J. J. Lanier, presented a resolution that November 4 be designated as a State-wide Masonic holiday, in honor of George Washington's Masonic birthday.

Newport News, Va.—This city is bubbling over with excitement as the result of an indictment of the police and other authorities by Rev. J. E. de Gafferelly, pastor of the Thirtieth Street Church of Christ. Mr. de Gafferelly says that the law is not being enforced as it should be, and that, whereas the present form of city government is giving the city a business-like administration, the moral tone of the city is bad.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wood wish to thank their many friends and relatives for the kindness shown during their recent bereavement. 47-2p.

THE INDEPENDENT WOMAN

is one of the brightest jewels which adorns our modern, economic system. But too often this independence is gained at the cost of health, and the wage-earning woman struggles through her duties, at prey to nervousness, backache and despondency. Does not her independence then become more of a burden than a joy? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped many such women to regain their zest in life, and will help many more.

JOSEPH DRAKE

"When I say that I weigh twenty-five pounds more than I did a short time ago it speaks volumes for the merit of Tanlac," said Jos. B. Drake, 430 Belmont Ave., Springfield, Mass.

"The first thing Tanlac did for me was to give me an appetite and tone up my stomach. It wasn't long before I was eating things I hadn't dared touch for years and anyone to see the hearty way I eat now would find it hard to believe that a few weeks ago I was dyspeptic and living on the lightest kind of diet.

"Another good thing Tanlac did for me was to drive the rheumatism almost entirely out of my system. In fact, I can truthfully say it has made me feel like a new man in every way. It certainly is a grand medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Alexandria by Edgar Warfield, Jr., and leading druggists everywhere.
